PATE-HALL

WEDDING.

Takes Place Sunday Afternoon
At The Beautiful Country
Home Of The Bride's Parents—Large Number Of Guests Present.

THE REV. GAYER OFFICIATES.

Sunday afternoon, May the second, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Pate, occurred one of the prettiest home weddings that has taken place in this county for some time, when Miss Emma T. Pate became the wife of Mr. Herbert Hall. The ceremony was performed at two o'clock by the Rev. Gayer, of Irvington. In a most impressive manner, amidst a great number of relatives and friends, who were circled around the parlor, the bride and groom marched into the room to the "Bridal Chorus" which was most pleasingly rendered by Miss Isabelle Hendricks. The happy couple advanced to the center of the room, where they were met by the officiating minister, who pronounced the ceremony that made two hearts one, as Miss Hendricks played the beautiful selection, "Love's Confession." After the ceremony the happy pair received the congratulations of their many friends and relatives and prepared to drive to Hardinsburg, where they will be at home to their friends at the home of Mrs. H. P. Roberts, a sister of the bride.

Miss Pate's costume was of white tulle and she carried a bunch of white carnations tied with white ribbon and looked very pretty indeed. She is a most lovable young woman and that community's loss will be Hardinsburg's gain.

Mr. Hall is head bookkeeper for B. F. Head & Co., Hardinsburg, and is a young man of sterling qualities and well liked by all who know him. The News extends congratulations.

In one way it speaks well for a town that there are no vacant dwellings to be had, on the other hand it is a sad reflection on the public spiritiveness of the citizens of that same town, when good people who are anxious to become residents, are forced to "move on" because they can find no place to lay their heads. Build more houses to rent at popular prices. Help yourself, help your town.

CHAPTER XXII.

LOBBYISTS--AND ONE IN PARTICULAR.

WASHINGTON has known many lobbyists in its time, and it keeps on knowing them. The striking increase in legislation that aims to restrict unlawful or improper practices in business, the awakening of the public conscience, has caused a greater demand than ever for influence at the national capital, for these restrictive measures must be either killed or enswathened to the point of uselessness by that process which is the salvation of many a corrupt manipulator, the process of amendment.

Predatory corporations, predatory business associations of different sorts and predatory individuals have their representatives on the field at Washington to ward off attack by any means that brains can devise or money procure and to obtain desired favors at a cost that will leave a profitable balance for the purchaser. Where commercial tricksters, believing in the lobbyist's favorite maxim, "The People Forget," feel that they have outlived the latest reform movement and see "the old days" returning, the professional politicians introduce a few reform measures themselves, most stringent measures. They push these measures ahead until somebody pays up, then the bills die. The lobbyist knows all about these "strike" bills, but does not know on them. No, no. Perhaps he helped draw up one of these bills so that, with the aid of his inside knowledge of his employer's business, the measure is made to give a greater scare than might otherwise have resulted. The bigger the scare the bigger the fund advanced, of course, for the lobbyist to handle. All this also helps the lobbyist to secure and retain employment.

Not all the Washington lobbyists are outside of congress. The senator or congressman has unequal facilities for oiling or blocking the course of a bill. Sometimes he confines himself to the interests of his own clients, while they may be. But sometimes he notices a bill that promises to be a pretty good thing for the client of some other member. If it is a bill that he begins to fight this bill so actively that he must be "let in on the deal" himself. This is very annoying to the other member, but the lobbyist has something else. He has learned the value of observing other people's legislation.

The outsiders (members of the "third house") and the insiders have a bond of freemasonry uniting them; they exchange information as to what members of both houses can do for them. They can be "got to" through whom and how much they want. This information is carefully tabulated, and new prices for passing or defeating legislation can be quoted to interested parties just as the price of a carload of pork can be ascertained at a given time and place. When this system that leads grafting members of short experience to wonder how knowledge of their taking what is termed "the sugar" got out and became known to the absolute. Did they not have pledge of associates secrecy? Yes, but the purchaser never tries to keep the information from those of his kind. Lobbyists must be honest with each other.

Not all lobbyists are men. The woman in legislative agent has been known to occupy an important position in Washington, and she does yet. She is hard to detect and frequently more ungrateful than the men similarly engaged, if that is possible.

A woman with a measure of social standing would naturally prove the most successful as a lobbyist in Washington because of the opportunities her position would afford her to meet people of prominence. And just such a one was Mrs. Cora Spangler, with whom the Langlands had been thrown in contact quite intimately since their arrival at the capital.

Pretty and vivacious, Mrs. Spangler bore her thirty-seven years with uncommon ease, aided possibly by the makeup box and the modiste. Her dinners and receptions were popular by people of acknowledged standing. Always a lavish spender of money, this was explained as possible because of a fortune left her by her late husband, Congressman Spangler of Pennsylvania. That this "fortune" had consisted largely of stock and bonds of a bankrupt copper smelter, and that in Michigan remained unknown, except to her husband's family, one or two of her own relatives and Senator Peabody, who, coming from Pennsylvania, had known her husband intimately.

He it was who had suggested to her that she might make money easily by cultivating the acquaintance of the new members of both houses and their families, exerting her influence in various "perfectly legitimate ways," he argued, for against matters pending in legislation. The Standard Steel corporation kept Mrs. Spangler well supplied with funds deposited monthly to her account in a Philadelphia trust company.

She avoided suspicion by reason of her sex and her many acquaintances of undisputed rank. Senator Peabody was never invited to her home, had never attended a single dinner, and he never saw her. He had given, all of which was a part of the policy they had mutually agreed on to deaden any suspicion that might come from Mrs. Spangler to her relation to the Standard Steel company. It was well known that Peabody had been put into the senate by Standard Steel to look after its interests.

He had found Mrs. Spangler chiefly valuable thus far as a source of information regarding the members of congress, which she obtained largely from their families. He was thus able to gain an idea of their associations, their particular interests and their aspirations in coming to congress, which proved of much use to him in forming and promoting acquaintances, all for the glory of Standard Steel.

Senator Holcomb of Missouri told Mrs. Spangler at an afternoon tea confidentially that he was going to vote against the ship subsidy bill. Senator Peabody was informed of this two hours later by a note written to him by Mrs. Spangler. When the vote was called two days later Senator Holcomb voted for the bill. Standard Steel supplies steel for ocean liners, and their building must be encouraged.

Mrs. Winslow, wife of Congressman Winslow of Indiana, remarked to Mrs. Spangler at a reception that she was "so glad Jimmie is going to do something for us women at last. He was ought to get silk gowns ever so much cheaper next year." Jimmie Winslow was a member of the house committee on ways and means and was lately engaged in the matter of tariff revision. When President Anderson of the Federal Silk company heard from Senator Peabody that Winslow favored lowering the tariff on silk a way was found to convince the congressman that the American silk industry was a weakening and many in fact would suffer if the foreign goods should be admitted any cheaper than at present.

President Anderson would be willing to do Senator Peabody a favor some day.

Sometimes Cora Spangler shuddered at the thought of what would become of her if she should meet some slip, some fatal error, and be discovered to her friends as a betrayer of confidences for money. A secret agent of Standard Steel had written her a letter that she would make "Society Favorite of the Year." "Woman Lobbyist Feels Paid Spill." The sensational headlines in the newspapers told her that she would get her teeth and dig her finger nails into her palms. She had to have money to carry on the life she loved so well. She must continue as she had begun. After all, she reasoned, nothing definite could ever be proved regarding the past. Let the future care for itself. She might marry again and free herself from this mode of life, who knows?

So reasoned Cora Spangler for the hundredth time during the last two years she sat in her boudoir at her home. She had spent part of the day with Cora Langland and in the evening had attended the musicale at their house. But she had been forced to leave early owing to a severe headache. Now, after an hour or two of rest, she felt better and was about to retire. Suddenly the door opened and a bell rang at a writing table. "Hello! Who is it?" near a window. She had two telephones, one in the lower hall and one in her boudoir--to save walking downstairs unnecessarily, she explained to her woman friends. But the number of this upstairs telephone was not in the public book. It had a private number, known to but two people except herself.

Picking down the receiver, she asked in low voice, "Hello, who is it?" "Mr. Wall." It was the name Senator Peabody used in telephone conversation with her.

"Yes, congressman," she responded. She always said "yes, congressman" in replying to "Mr. Wall," a prearranged manner of indicating that he was talking to the desired person. "I will need your services tomorrow," said Senator Peabody, "and a very important matter, I am afraid. Decline any engagements and hold yourself in readiness."

"Yes." "I may send my friend S. to explain things at 10:30 in the morning. If he does not arrive at that time, telephone me at 10:35 sharp. You know where. Understand? I have put off going to Philadelphia tonight."

"Yes." "That is all; goodbye."

"Something very important," she murmured nervously as she turned from the desk.

"I don't like his tone of voice; sounds strained and worried--something unusual for the calm, bluff gentleman from Pennsylvania. And his friend S., of course, means Stevens! Great heavens, then Stevens must now have knowledge of my--my--business!"

She called her maid and straightened a dainty, slender finger against her cheek.

"It must be something about that naval base bill, I'm sure. That's been worrying Peabody all session," she mused as she pressed a button to summon her maid.

A greater number of artists of international fame has been engaged than ever before, and the scope of the festival is of larger magnitude than anything hitherto undertaken. It has been announced, nevertheless, that prices for the festival will be lower than before, so that the attendance is expected to break records.

If you expect to get the original Carbolized Witch Hazel Salve you must be sure it is DeWitt's Carbolized Witch Hazel Salve. It is good for cuts, burns and bruises, and is especially good for piles. Refuse substitutes. Sold by all druggists.

The Ruining Passion.

His clothes said he was a tramp, but his brow was high and his manner grand. "Madam, may I request the favor of a pair of your husband's cast-off trousers? These are somewhat passé." This, with a sweep of a tattered hat, brought results in the shape of a pair of hubby's oldest, which were just about two degrees better than those the tramp was wearing. After critical review of his acquisition, instead of the polite words of thanks the good woman was waiting for, the tramp volunteered, with a deep, long drawn sigh of regret, "Madam, I see your husband discards from weakness."--Puck.

CLOVERPORT, KY., WEDNESDAY, MAY 5, 1909

We should be as happy as possible and our happiness should last as long as possible; for those who can finally issue from self by the portal of happiness know infinitely wider freedom than those who pass through the gate of sadness.—Materlinck.

Mrs. Mary RYAN. A woman who has lived long in Cloverport and has many good friends is Mrs. Mary Ryan whose home is on Houston and First streets in the East End. On her eighty-third birthday, Nov. 29, 1908, she had the photograph from which the accompanying picture was made.

Mrs. Ryan was the daughter of John Weatherholt, who walked from New Orleans eight times. It is most interesting to hear Mrs. Ryan tell about those days of long ago when "walking and flat boats" were the most popular ways of transportation. Mrs. Ryan is most accomplished with the needle and her handiwork is exquisite.

Her two children, Mrs. L. B. Perkins, with whom she makes her home, and Capt. Marion Ryan of Cairo, Ill., are devoted to her. Every time Capt. Ryan's boat comes down or up the Ohio, he anchors at this port to have a little visit with his mother. The News extends to Mrs. Ryan best wishes for years more of health and enjoyment, for though she is past four score years, she yet seems very young to many of us.

In this issue of the News, Mr. Henderson, county president of the Sunday schools, announces the County Sunday School Convention to be held at McQuady, June 2nd, and in addition makes several requests of the Sunday school workers. Mr. Henderson is very enthusiastic over this meeting and is most desirous that it will be a successful one. Interest in Sunday school work seems to be wonderfully increasing in this county, especially in Cloverport and particularly the Methodist church. The Baptist denomination of this city has the banner school but the Presbyterians and Methodists have of late been getting a move on them. So, Mr. Henderson, you may expect at least, a better report from Cloverport, if not a most excellent one at the McQuady convention.

Bailey of Texas led off in the Senate tariff discussion of the last week with a brilliant two-days' speech in favor of his income tax amendment, urging that men should pay on the basis of what they had rather than what they wanted. He would protect labor by excluding immigrants. Among other amendments proposed was a tax on immigrants and a duty on lumber. The latter proposition was advocated by a number of Southern Democrats, who thereby repudiated the free lumber plank in their party platform. Bacon of Georgia said that party platforms were "made in the night and do not mean anything."

From time to time during the last year the News has been publishing brief sketches of the lives of our best citizens, both old and young. A pleasure has it been to us to do so, and the little life stories of our elder friends have enjoyed. There is much we might learn from the "old folks" if we would interest ourselves enough in them to listen to their talks about the experiences through which they have passed. Indeed, young people miss a great deal of the knowledge of life in heedlessly passing these who are blessed with old age.

A good woman in this town suggests that Charlie Lightfoot would make a good County Judge. She said she didn't know what party he affiliated with and she didn't care. She knew him to be a sober, intelligent, hardworking man and fairly well equipped for the place regardless of his politics. The Democrats ought to take this woman's advice and profit by it.

There ought to be a fine display of stock at Hardinsburg next Monday. Every man in the county who has a fine stallion, mare or gelding should make it a point to be there with his stock. It will show what we are doing in the stock business and will be a great incentive to the people in general to raise and produce better stock.

The News has an inquiry for a 250 or 600 acre farm. Party has cash to pay. Wants good land. Parties who have farms to sell should list them in our farm department. This party says he has a number of friends who would like to move to Breckenridge and buy farms if the land and prices suit them.

Thursday we mailed a large number of "notifications" cards to our subscribers and we appreciate all the renewals received. Those who have not responded to our request will understand why the News is discontinued.

If there are other women in this town or county, having a good man in view who would make a good county officer, the News will take pleasure in announcing their choice to the voters.

Next Monday is Circuit Court at Hardinsburg. Judge Chelf is reported sufficiently recovered from his recent sickness and will preside.

Say, Old Winter, haven't you lingered long enough?

LOUISVILLE TO BE LIKE FAIRYLAND.

When The Shriners Meet in June

Delightful Program Arranged For Four Days--

$75,000 Spent in Preparation.

THURSDAY "COMMERCIAL DAY"

Louisville, Ky., May 4.—(Special)—Elaborate plans have been worked out for the entertainment of the Ancient Order, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, of America who will gather in Louisville, June 7 to 10, 1909. It will be the thirty-fifth annual session of the order. The official meeting will be held by four imperial representatives from each of the 112 temples in the United States, Canada and Mexico, together with the Imperial Divan, or national officers.

Over thirty-five patrols or Shrine drill teams from as many different temples have already engaged accommodations in Louisville and will participate in a great night pageant of the Shriners, in the exhibition drills and in the grand review. The Louisville committee, under the chairmanship of Frank Peir, and citizens have together spent upwards of $75,000 in preparation for this meeting. This sum has gone almost exclusively for illuminations and decorations and the Kentucky metropolis will be a veritable fairyland of lights and colors when the Shrine hosts advance on Mecca. Colossal electric designs, made up of emblems of the order, will be located at all street intersections, the broad avenues of Louisville will be draped in electric strands, flags and bunting and there is to be a gorgeous Court of Honor four blocks in length. Among the special features is the largest electric clock in the world. It will be located in the Armory where the grand ball and other Shrine week functions will take place. This magnificent decorative feature is forty feet long, with a dial twenty-five feet in circumference. It is illuminated by 5,500 electric globes.

The week's program will open on Monday morning, June 7, with a formal reception of visiting Shriners and the escort of each temple to its headquarters. During the afternoon of the first day an excursion on the beautiful Ohio will take place, three palatial steamers having been chartered for the use of the Shriners and their ladies. Each boat will be equipped with a band of music and refreshments will be served. At a reception in honor of the Imperial Divan will be held at the Masonic Widows and Orphans Home, accompanied by a musical program participated in by a chorus of 500 children. On Tuesday morning the first session of the Imperial Council will be held in the Armory. Addresses of welcome will be made by Mayor James F. Grinstead, of Louisville, and the Hon. Augustus E. Wilson, Governor of Kentucky. Tuesday night will be marked by the grand electrical pageant of the Shriners which will appear in this line of march.

A continuation of the exhibition drills will mark the Wednesday morning program. At the same time visiting ladies will be entertained by automobile rides. One hundred motor cars have been placed at the disposal of the entertaining committee for this purpose. During the afternoon there will be a series of automobile races at one of the Jockey Club parks, in which the leading professional drivers of America will participate. This will be followed by a regimental review of all patrols and a concert by twenty-five or thirty bands.

One of the novelties of the week will be a "southern negro entertainment." Five hundred negro men and women will participate in this entertainment. Plantation melodies and old time songs will be sung and the function will conclude with a genuine Southern cake walk. Preceding the entertainment there will be a great watermelon feast. Thursday morning will be known as "Commercial Day." Visits will be paid to various industries typical of Kentucky manufacturing genius. The afternoon of that day will be marked by a grand spectacular open air drama called "The attack on Bonapoleon." Over 1,000 soldiers and Indians will take part in this event. The last formal function in connection with the week's program will be the grand Shriners ball in the Armory on Thursday night.

Holland Rejoices. The Hague, April 30.—A daughter was born to Queen Wilhelmina, and all Holland is rejoicing over the event. The Queen was reported as doing nicely at last reports.

It Gets the Criminals. According to the Chinese method of criminal prosecution, a man is responsible for the crime he may have committed personally, but if he chooses to escape justice by running away from the place where the deed was committed then the remaining members of his immediate family are held and punished in lieu of the real culprit. This may seem a strange way of attracting the real criminal back to the scene of his crime, but it appeals to the religious side of the man's superstitious nature. According to their religion, the man who forsakes his parents when in peril will find his soul sailing around through hades without chart or compass for all eternity. In view of this, compliance with the law is very prompt, for John Chinaman does not care to take the desperate chance.

JUST TIME.

The Wonderful Part It Plays in the Earth's History.

Truly it is hard for us to realize what a part time has played in the earth's history—just time, duration—so slowly, oh, so slowly, have the great changes been brought about. The turning of mud and silt into rock in the bottom of the old seas seems to have been merely a question of time. Mud does not become rock in man's time nor vegetable matter become coal. These processes are too slow for us. The flexing and folding of the rocky strata, miles deep, under an even pressure is only a question of time. Allow time enough and force enough and a layer of granite may be bent like a bow. The crystals of the rock seem to adjust themselves to the strain and to take up new positions, just as they do much more rapidly in a cake of ice under pressure. Probably no human agency could flex a stratum of rock, because there is not time enough even if there were power enough. "A low temperature acting gradually," says my geology, "during an indefinite age would produce results that could not be otherwise brought about even through greater heat." "Give us time," says the great mechanical forces, "and we will show you the immobile rocks and your rigid mountain chains as flexible as a piece of leather." "Give us time," says the dew and the rains and the snowdrifts, "and we will make you a garden out of those same stubborn rocks and frowning ledges." "Give us time," says Life, starting with its protozoans in the old Cambrian seas, "and I will not stop till I have peopled the earth with myriad forms, and crowned them with man."—John Burroughs in Atlantic.

Eat What

You want of the food you need
Kodol will digest it.

You need a sufficient amount of good wholesome food and more than this you need to fully digest it. Else you can't gain strength, nor can you strengthen your stomach if it is weak.

You must eat in order to live and maintain strength.

You must not diet, because the body requires that you eat a sufficient amount of food regularly.

But this food must be digested, and it must be digested thoroughly. When the stomach can't do it, you must take something that will help the stomach.

The proper way to do is to eat what you want, and let Kodol digest the food.

Nothing else can do this. When the stomach is weak it needs help; you must help it by giving it rest, and Kodol will do that.

Tar Fork bridge, one wing-wall is down; will have to be built larger, if made safe; estimated cost, $850.

Cloverport bridge needs new floor and joist, cost, $450.

Falls of Rough bridge needs new floor and joist, cost (Breckinridge county's part) $285.

Would recommend putting stone piers in place of tubes, which would cost but little more; estimated cost of Breckinridge county's part, $500.

Clifton Mill bridge needs two bents put under it this make it safe; estimated cost, $1,000.

Beck Fork needs new roof; estimated cost $40.

The bridges on river road from Cloverport to Stephensport, needs more repair to put them in good condition; estimated cost $500.

Would further recommend to the court that there be two new bridges built in the county, one at Webster crossing, Stephensport; estimated cost $2,000; and one across Short Pouch; estimated cost, $400.

Estimated damages to large culverts in county caused by recent high waters, $1000. Total $10,407.

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure, apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidneys, and blood will attack the vital organs, causing catarrh of the bladder, brick-dust or sediment in the urine, head ache, back ache, lame back, dizziness, sleeplessness, nervousness, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell.

Bladder troubles almost always result from a derangement of the kidneys and better health in that organ is obtained quickly by a proper treatment of the kidneys. Swamp-Koot corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and immediate effect of Swamp-Koot, the great kidney remedy, is soon realized. It stands the highest because of its remarkable health restoring properties. A trial will convince you.

Swamp-Koot is pleasant to take and is sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle and a book that tells all about it, sent free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Birmingham, N. Y.

When writing mention reading this notice in this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name Swamp-Koot, and don't let a dealer sell you something in place of Swamp-Koot—do you will be disappointed.

Dent's bridge is in bad condition and is unfit for public travel, and should be replaced by new iron bridge, estimated cost, $700. Roestetta bridge is in bad shape, but, if repaired, could be made to last three or four years; cost of repairs $150.

And said motion was voted upon and carried was unanimously adopted by a yea and nay vote and made the order of this court.

This day came the sheriff, in response to an order heretofore made, and produced to the magistrates of the several districts, a list of delinquent taxpayers, and the magistrates of each district have examined the said list. It is moved by justice Bates and seconded by justice O'Reilly, that the said list as corrected, be adopted, and that the sheriff be given credit in his settlement for 1908, in the sum of $1.50 for each delinquent as follows: First district, 172 delinquents; Second district, 194 delinquents; Third district, 103 delinquents; Fourth district, 112 delinquents; Fifth district, 66 delinquents; Six district, 82 delinquents. SPRING POETRY

BY REV. J. MEADOR

The first poem written for the News since the robins have come.

Coleman and Rea, went to the sea,
In a beautiful pea green boat,
They took some honey, and plenty of money,
Wrapped up in a five pound note;
And Coleman looked up to the moon above,
And sang to a small guitar—
"O, lovely Rea, O, Rea my love!
What a beautiful Rea you are, you are,
What a beautiful Rea you are."

Rea said to Coleman, "you elegant fellow,
How wonderfully sweet you sing,
O, let us be married, too long we have tarried,
But what shall we do for a ring?
They sailed away for a year and a day—
To the land where the bong tree grows,
And there in the road a piggy-wig stood
With a ring in the end of his nose,
With a ring in the end of his nose.

Dear Pig, are you willing to sell for a shilling
Your ring? Said the Piggy, "I will."
So they took it away and were married next day,
By the Turkey that lives on the hill,
They dined upon mince and slices of quince,
Which they ate with a fish-horn spoon;
And hand in hand, on the edge of the sand,
They danced by the light of the moon, the moon,
They danced by the light of the moon.

"The pure food law" is designed by the Government to protect the public from injurious ingredients in both foods and drugs. It is beneficial both to the public and to the conscientious manufacturer. Ely's Cream Balm, a successful remedy for cold in the head, nasal catarrh, hay fever, etc., containing no injurious drugs, meets fully the requirements of the new law, and that fact is prominently stated on every package. It contains none of the injurious drugs which are required by the law to be mentioned on the label. Hence you can use it safely.

Has Stood By The News.

Enclosed you will find P. O. Money Order for one dollar for which is my thirtieth installment of my lifetime interest in the News. I subscribed for the News when a besetling boy in 1880. I have also been a subscriber to the Courier-Journal for 27 years and will take it as long as I live. I came very near falling out with the News in '90 when it tore its shirt off its back and pulled the hair out of its head for free air, but the Courier-Journal hewed to the line and is still doing business at the same old stand. Well, everything looks prosperous for a good crop this year, grass came early and stock is doing nicely. Corn is about all planted and early corn is being worked. Cotton will be planted this week and the first week in May. There will be a large acreage planted this year. Wishing you success, I remain as ever, Edgar Addison, Redford, Okla. April 26, 1909.

The Breckenridge News

The Breckenridge News is one of the oldest established newspapers in the state and has for many years been a favorite county paper for many people. John D. Babbage, the editor, is an indefatigable worker and is well-known over the state. He has one of the finest equipped newspaper and job printing plants in the state and does an extensive business in both departments.

Mrs. A. Louise Babbage, the assistant editor, is one of the most brilliant and most beautiful young women in Western Kentucky. She has a great many admirers over the state in the newspaper fraternity, having become exceedingly popular through what was considered one of the best addresses ever delivered before the Kentucky Press Association, at its Mid-winter meeting in Louisville last December.—Breckenridge Democrat.

I wish to compliment the News on the catchy, excellent write-up given our show. The circus folks were highly pleased and we want several extra copies.—M. Rhodes, Howes London Shows, April 28.

I appreciate the News more than any county newspaper on our exchange list. You have such an original way of writing up little local happenings and it gives your paper an attractive appearance.

This is the most that medicine can do. A man accidentally puts his finger in the fire. Instinctively he wets his finger in his mouth, then blows out the fire. This is no cure. He knows it very well. But it makes it feel better for the time being.

People eat unwisely. This produces dyspepsia or indigestion. The only rational cure is to eat correctly. Yet if a palliative is at hand the patient of indigestion can be mitigated.

The three of dyspepsia assuaged. The medicine cannot be said to have cured. It simply palliates disagreeable symptoms. The cure must come through right living.

Take Peruna, for instance. No one claims Peruna is a cure for dyspepsia. But Peruna will stimulate the stomach to perform its function properly. Peruna will increase the flow of digestive fluids, without which digestion cannot be carried on at all. It will increase the relish of food, the appetite.

It is admitted that all this can be accomplished by right living, but there are so many people who either will not or do not know how to eat correctly that a tremendous amount of good can be done by the wise use of Peruna.

A stomach that has been frequently abused performs the function of digestion very lazily. Such a stomach allows the food to remain undigested for some time after it is swallowed. This leads to fermentation of the food. Sour stomach is the result. This goes on week after week, until the blood is poisoned with the product of fermentation. This condition is very apt to produce rheumatism, dyspepsia, neuralgia, gout, etc.

THE HUMAN HAND.

Result of Poor Writing.
The Duke of Wellington, through misreading a badly written letter, made a serious blunder. This letter was written by C. J. London, a notable author who wrote to the duke requesting the privilege of seeing his beautiful breeches. The duke misread the signature for that of C. J. Bloomfield, bishop of London, and wrote in reply: "My lord, I shall always be glad to see you at Stratford-on-Avon, and my servant shall show you as many pairs of my breeches as you may choose to inspect. But what you want to see them for is quite beyond me."—Exchange.

He Explains.

"Why is it, please," asked the duke, "that when Christopher Columbus discovered this country he did not settle down and stay here?"

"Doubtless you are aware, my young friend," answered the professor, "that the Spanish form of his name was Cristoval Colon?"

"Yes, sir."

"Well, a colon does not mean a full stop. We will return now, young gentlemen, to the consideration of the lesson."—Exchange.

In a Different Class.

"I hear, Mike, that your wife has gone into society. Has she become a slattern?"

"Indeed she has not got into that class. She still uses a flatiron, sir."—New York Times.

Settled.

Uncle Zeb looking over bill of fare at a party, he said to the waiter: "You don't see any of our old friends here?"

"No, sir."

"Well, a colon does not mean a full stop. We will return now, young gentlemen, to the consideration of the lesson."—Exchange.

Is a Cure Disease? Drugs Assist Nature?

not claimed that Peruna will cure anything but a diseased stomach. But it is claimed that Peruna will assist a diseased stomach to perform its function.

A person would correct his habits, eat in right eating and temperate, undoubtedly the stomach would be right. But as said before there are a multitude of people who cannot adapt right methods of living.

To such people Peruna is a boon. A dose before meals will assist the stomach to do its work. This prevents fermentation of the food, brings about normal digestion, and all the train of ills that follow indigestion disappear.

In other words, Peruna is helpful to those who live badly, or those who have acquired some chronic weakness. Peruna does not cure, but it assists the powers of Nature to bring about a cure.

The whip does not increase the power of the horse to pull a load, but judiciously used it stimulates the horse to use his powers at the right time, with out which he could not have pulled the load.

This illustrates the effect of Peruna, or any other good remedy upon the system. Taken at the right time, it calls forth the powers of the human system to meet the requirements of the disease, and thus cuts short, if not entirely ends, the diseased action.

No one should ever attempt to substitute medicine in the place of right living. In the end such an attempt will prove disastrous. But an occasional use of the right medicine at the right time is a golden rule, and no reasonable person will undertake to deny it.

Those who know how to use Peruna find it of untold value. By and by the world will get wise enough so that through correct living no medicine will be needed. But that time has not arrived. In the meantime, while the world is approaching that perfection in which all medicine will be eliminated, Peruna is a handy remedy to have in the home.

Slight derangements of the stomach; slight catarrhal attacks of the liver; the throat, bronchial tubes, lungs or bowels; these attacks are sure to lead to grave diseases, and can be averted by the judicious use of Peruna.

Let us ask ourselves the question, how does Peruna assist Nature? How does Peruna even mitigate acute diseases?

If we could but see the mucous membrane of a catarrhal stomach we would find it paler than it should be, poorly supplied with blood, and hence the people juices not furnished in sufficient abundance.

If food is taken into the stomach while it is in this condition, the stimulus of the food is not sufficient to cause the juices to be poured out in the quantity and quality to digest it. The food, therefore, ferments, becomes sour. Various gases are formed and poisonous materials, which not only disturb the stomach, but are absorbed by the stomach and intestines into the system, producing depression of the nervous system, derangement of the action of the heart, slow complexion, biliousness, and the like.

If a dose of Peruna is taken just before eating, the action of the Peruna upon the inner coats of the stomach is stimulating. A flow of blood is brought to the parts, and an abundant quantity of gastric juice is poured out. The muscular walls of the stomach are temporarily strengthened to do their part, and thus quick and thorough digestion of the food is secured.

This sort of digestion nourishes the whole body, the stomach as well as the other organs. If the Peruna is continued judiciously for a few days the walls of the stomach are so strengthened and the circulation of the blood is so regulated by the increased amount of nutrition received, that the Peruna need not be taken any longer. The stomach has simply been assisted temporarily, when it is able to take up its own function in a natural way. This is how it is that Peruna assists Nature.

Wouldn't you like to read a few un-solicited testimonials from people who have used Peruna, and who stand ready to confirm the above statements concerning it? If so, address the Peruna Drug Manufacturing Co., Columbus, Ohio, and we will send you pre-paid.

Books.

God be thanked for books! They are the voices of the distant and the dead and make us heirs of the spiritual life of past ages. Books are true teachers. They give to all who will faithfully use them the society, the spiritual presence, of the best and greatest of our race. No matter how poor I am, no matter though the prospect of my own time will not enter my obscure dwelling, if the sacred writers will enter and take up their abode under my roof—if Milton will cross my threshold to sing to me of paradise, and Shakespeare to open to me the world of imagination and the workings of the human heart, and Franklin to enrich me with his practical wisdom—I shall not pine for want of intellectual companionship, and I may become a cultivated man, though excluded from the place where I live.—William Elliot Channing.
